

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN.

1881.

Prospectus.

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN begins the new year under new management and with new material.

It will be a stalwart Republican journal, and will at all times give complete information of the official doings in all Departments of the Government.

It will furnish, during the sessions of Congress a satisfactory report of the proceedings, and will at all times give complete information of the official doings in all Departments of the Government.

It will give all interesting information that can be legitimately obtained concerning the intentions and policies of the ruling power.

In District affairs it will know only the best interests of the people upon whom favor it rests, and will at all times co-operate with progressive citizens, without regard to their political predilections, who have measures to propose and advance for the improvement of the National Capital.

It will furnish a daily record of all the interesting social events of the city, making its society department a special feature.

It will give telegraphic news from all parts of the world reached by the wires, and in its editorial and foreign, domestic, and city news will keep pace with the times.

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN.

The dog Guiteau says now that he is praying daily for the recovery of the President and that he regrets the deed.

He evidently has not abandoned the idea of trying to get an office if the President shall recover.

The Bourbon Funder in Virginia are bold and outspoken about the capitation tax.

At Fairfax Court-House last Monday, after Captain Blair had concluded his speech, an influential Funder declared openly to a crowd on the street that if the Funder party succeeded in Virginia they would put the head-tax at five dollars instead of one. This is a fair sample of what they will do for the poor people if they should gain control of the State.

The kind of a man Marat Halstead is well best explained by a repetition of the following from a Washington letter to a New York paper:

A prominent Ohio Journalist has a letter received from Marat Halstead last hour after Garfield's nomination, in which he says that his nomination would be a scandal and a farce; that he had learned that, in addition to all his other offenses, Garfield was to be his next in the month-enduring suicide. Halstead having learned of the nomination of Garfield before the letter reached him, he kept it confidential and not let Garfield know it. The letter is now in Cincinnati.

More trouble between the American and Mexican cattle thieves along the border.

The hopes of filibusters arise at such times. The United States will have no grievance against Mexico if they stop strong hand and stop robbing us upon her soil. Nor need we be alarmed by any in any haste to send either an "army of observation" or of "occupation" to the Rio Grande to protect the lawless desperadoes and outlaws, claiming to be Americans, who make cattle-stealing raids across the line which divides us from a friendly nation. There ought to be a Zona Libera of a league or two, within which both kinds of thieves could fight it out without involving the two countries which are respectively infested by them.

Virginia Republicans--Their Platform and State Central Committee.

The following is a correct list of the Republican State Central Committee of Virginia appointed at the recent State convention. It is composed wholly of well-known and influential Republicans:

STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

James L. Blair, chairman.

W. M. Hazledorn, secretary.

B. S. Hooper, E. D. Bland, J. H. Van Aulen, Joseph Gregory, and Ed. Thompson.

FIRST DISTRICT.

W. B. Douglas, J. R. Stovall, J. P. Carter, G. B. Howell.

SECOND DISTRICT.

George Hughes, R. R. Alexander, H. Libbey, Abel Hunt.

THIRD DISTRICT.

E. D. Bland, A. B. Parker, D. S. Lewis, John L. Harris.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

Ed. Thompson, A. P. Patton, W. M. Wood, R. S. Hooper, W. P. Mitchell.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

M. R. DeMott, J. R. Blair, J. H. Van Aulen, J. H. Kugley, W. H. Plasmant, H. A. Jamison.

The platform adopted was imperfectly telegraphed from Lynchburg, one plank having been omitted entirely and errors having been made in transmitting other portions. By request, we give it in full:

The Republicans of Virginia, by their duly appointed delegates, in convention assembled, do resolve:

First--That the Bourbon Democratic party of Virginia, by its most recent official utterances, has shown that it is still false to its professions respecting the credit of the State, and that it again seeks to deceive both the people and creditors by means of fair promises, which past experience teaches us it never intends to fulfill.

Second--That the Bourbon Democratic party of Virginia is now, as ever in its past history, opposed to the true interests and welfare of the people; opposed to fair and free elections; and an honest count, as evidenced by their determination to uphold the unconstitutional and unendurable law which requires the payment of the capitation tax as a prerequisite to the exercise of the right of suffrage, and opposed to the right of education of the children of all the people.

Third--That the anti-Bourbon or Liberal party has shown by its acts, since it obtained control of the Legislature and partial control of the State government, the sincerity of its professions in favor of the faithful collection and honest expenditure of the public revenues, as desired by the constitution and laws of the State; in favor of fair and free elections; in favor of impartial justice and the impartial execution of the laws, and in favor of public education.

Fourth--That, in view of this condition of political affairs, and in view of the fact that the Bourbon party is still determined to destroy the credit of the State, and to labor to pay every dollar that it honestly owes, we deem it inexpedient and unwise to make separate party nominations for States offices, and we declare in favor of hearty co-operation with all other citizens in support of the candidates nominated by the anti-Bourbon or Liberal convention held in the city of Richmond June 2 and 3, 1881.

Fifth--That, as Republicans, we earnestly invite all other Republicans to join their efforts with us for the final overthrow of Bourbon oppression, intolerance, and tyranny in the State of Virginia.

Riding Two Horses.

Jonathan Wild is said to have successfully imposed himself upon the London police for twenty years as a trusted guide, philosopher, and friend. Each side confided in him implicitly. To each, at different times he was undoubtedly true, according as his interest dictated for the moment. As a thief he could play his vocation without being suspected by the police, who thought him one of their friends, while as a detective he could secure most valuable information from the thieves, who trusted him as a brother. His real character was that of a thief from principle; when not an agent of justice, from interest. The adroit manner in which two Jonathan Wilds in one thus flourished for twenty years is a curious study, but not more entertaining than that of the Democratic party attitudinizing alternately as the fiercest and mildest, the best and worst of all human organizations. It is not known that Jonathan Wild never appeared as thief and officer at one and the same time. He was careful never to mix himself. The Democratic party does better than this. It has shown itself capable of appearing in one convention as the fearful sympathizer with a Republican President suffering from a wound, and at the same time as the friend of criminals, deliberately raising funds to aid in paying the fines of brethren who had pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking the laws of the land in efforts to prevent that President's election. This two-horse act is described in the following newspaper clipping sent us by a friend, giving an account of the deliberations of the Democracy in county convention assembled in Holmes County, Mississippi:

At a convention of delegates of the Democratic party of Holmes County, held at Lexington the 10th day of July, A. D. 1881, it is

Resolved, That whereas an attempt on the life of the President of the United States has been made and his life endangered thereby, the convention do hereby express its indignation and abhorrence at the deed, and its sympathy with the President, James A. Garfield, and his family, with a fervent prayer for his speedy recovery.

A copy of this resolution, signed by the chairman, be forwarded by the secretary of this convention to James G. Blaine, Secretary of State.

Reports having been made of the amount of money raised for the purpose of raising the capitation tax, the convention do hereby express its indignation and abhorrence at the deed, and its sympathy with the President, James A. Garfield, and his family, with a fervent prayer for his speedy recovery.

ONCE A MILLIONAIRE.

The sudden fall of mining stock speculation from affluence to poverty was never better shown than in the case of Johnny Skae, once one of the leading millionaires of the West. The other night he was arrested in a beer cellar for being drunk and disorderly, and, as he did not have $5 to put up for bail, he laid in the station-house for several hours, his friends having failed to procure a local at the place to see the sergeant of police, saw and recognized Skae and had him removed to comfortable quarters. Skae is now, like many other millionaires, apparently living in poverty, and is
